

Secretary Krug to Be Called in Mine Tragedy Inquiries

Illinois Legislature in Se- veral Moves to Provide Aid for Victims

Centralia, Ill., April 3—(AP)—The chairman of a U. S. senate subcommittee announced today Secretary of the Interior Krug would be called to testify before the group when it shifts its investigation of the 111-victim Centralia coal mine explosion to Washington.

John L. Lewis, AFL miners union president, also will be allowed to appear "if he wants to," Senator Cordon (R-Ore) said in his announcement.

The Washington phase of the inquiry was discussed as the subcommittee of the senate public lands committee began hearings on the March 25 explosion in the No. 5 mine of the Centralia Coal Company. Hearings in Centralia are expected to run three days.

Another member of the three-man subcommittee, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), said last night the present investigation might cause tightening of safety rules in all coal pits in the nation.

Thirty-five relatives of miners who perished in the No. 5 mine explosion lined one side of the Centralia city council chamber as the senate group began its proceedings. A state-organized committee of fact-finders which met earlier this week was continuing its separate inquiry.

For Thorough Probe
In starting the hearing, Cordon said his group hoped to make a "thorough" investigation of all phases of the accident, including the cause, whether or not there was negligence by the mine operators, and whether or not safety inspections were adequate.

Chairman Cordon said that because of the character of the inquiry all witnesses would appear under subpoena and would testify under oath.

The third member of the subcommittee, Senator Dworshak (R-Ia), remained in Washington to vote on the Lillenthal Atomic energy Commission appointment and was to join his colleagues here later.

Harry Nierman, assistant superintendent of the mine where the blast trapped and killed 111 diggers, testified he started working there as a miner in 1917 and held various positions until he became assistant superintendent April 1, 1946.

Before 1917, Nierman testified, there were several explosions which killed some men and 1920 or 1921 there was a black powder blast in which three perished.

ASSEMBLY PLANS AID
Springfield, Ill., April 3—(AP)—Moves to investigate the Centralia mine disaster and provide special compensation for families of the victims were underway today in the Illinois general assembly.

The senate unanimously voted creation of a 10 member legislative committee yesterday to examine the adequacy of existing mine safety laws and to look into the cause of the disaster. The proposal was sent to the house.

Both senate and house received plans for paying up to $5,000 to survivors of each of 111 men killed in the coal mine tragedy.

Rep. A. A. Brands (D-Prairie du Rocher), who said last week's explosion had left Centralia a "blighted area" sponsored with several other lawmakers an emergency measure to appropriate $550,000 for state awards to miners.

Earle 'Astonished' by Truman Letter

Philadelphia, April 3—(AP)—President Truman is reported to have written George H. Earle, 34, that a communist threat is "bugaboo" but the former Pennsylvania governor said the president's attitude "astonishes me."

Earle disclosed last night that Truman had written him Feb. 28 saying that the United States "is perfectly safe as far as communism is concerned."

"The thing about the president's letter of great concern and worry to me is its inconsistency," Earle told reporters, adding:

"At this most critical time in our nation's history, when he himself has just ordered communists purged from the government and started the Greek and Turkish aid programs, that he should write such a letter astonishes me."

The White House confirmed that Truman had written Earle but declined to disclose contents of the letter.

Earle, a socially prominent Pennsylvania Democrat who was a minister to Bulgaria during the war, said he replied to the president that if congress adopted a similar attitude, "the future of our country is without hope."

For supervisor—A. C. Higby, 1,164; William Hanson, 588.
For assistant supervisor—(three to be elected)—George Prosser, 1,317; Leon Miller, 1,266; Frank C. Sproul, 1,079 and Hugh Cruse, 662.
For highway commissioner—James Devine, Jr., 952; John O. Nelson, 824.

State Commission May Act Soon on INU Gas Request

The Illinois Commerce Commission may act within a week on the request of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co. and three other gas companies that they be allowed to continue their discretionary powers in the distribution of gas beyond the present April 30 expiration date, according to William V. Helander, commission examiner, who conducted a hearing in the petition in Chicago Wednesday.

The companies, all operating in northern Illinois, told the commission that because of an insufficiency of supply they are unable to satisfy an increasing demand.

In an order issued last summer, the commission authorized the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, the Western United Gas & Electric company, the Illinois Northern Utilities Company and the People's Gas Light & Coke Company to place the restrictions into effect.

They include denial of gas to new industrial customers who could use any other fuel, additional gas to present consumers who have installed additional equipment and all but a few new home owners.

Bilbo Faces Another Pair of Operations

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Theodore G. Bilbo won't be back to claim his seat as senator this year unless congress stays in session longer than planned, Attorney Forrest Jackson predicted today. Jackson, who is Bilbo's legal advisor, said the Mississippi Democrat still faces two operations on his ailing jaw, each followed by six weeks for healing if all goes well.

Republican leaders plan for congress to wind up in July. If it continues in session Bilbo "may be back the latter part of August or in September to present himself," Jackson told a reporter.

Meanwhile Bilbo will continue to draw his $12,500 a year salary.

The senate declined to seat Bilbo in January because of charges by a war investigating committee that he misused his office in dealings with contractors in Mississippi.

A final decision on his case was deferred because of his illness.

Krug's Closing Order Interpreted as Guilt

Centralia, Ill., April 3—(AP)—Two AFL United Mine Workers officials, informed of Secretary Krug's closing of 518 coal mines as a safety measure, said today "Mr. Krug is pleading guilty as charged by John L. Lewis" in the Centralia mine disaster.

The officials, Hugh White, Illinois district president of the union, and Harrison Combs, UMWA counsel, referred to assertions by Lewis that the secretary of the interior, as federal administrator of government-operated mines, "is responsible for the death" of 111 Centralia coal miners in an explosion March 25.

Krug ordered that 518 mines shut down because of a period of mourning for the Centralia victims, remain closed indefinitely because they are believed dangerous.

Russia "Sabotaging" U. N., Says Eric Johnston at Council Rally

Philadelphia, April 3—(AP)—The Soviet Union was accused today of "sabotaging" the United Nations and Eric Johnston declared it is up to the international body to determine whether Russia wants world union or world revolution.

Speaking at a rally of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia, the former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce asserted that "Russia has been the chief culprit in undermining the United Nations."

Through use of "obstructive policies," Johnston asserted, the Russians so weakened U. N. that it was "powerless" to aid Greece and Turkey, thus forcing the United States to take the initial step.

Blast and Fire in Fireworks Factory Take Twelve Lives

Cause of Tragedy Wed- nesday in Clinton, Mo. is Undetermined Today

Clinton, Mo., April 3—(AP)—An explosion and gunpowder-fed fire destroyed a fireworks manufacturing plant yesterday, burning to death 12 of the 28 employees working in the one story frame building and injuring four.

One of the injured was in critical condition. Ten of the victims died in the explosion and fire and two others succumbed in a Clinton hospital.

The workers were making toy buzz bombs in the Brown Manufacturing Company for Fourth of July sale. Shortly after the blast, the cause of which was not known, flames were so intense that firemen were unable to get closer than 100 yards from the building.

Some of the victims were so badly burned identification was only possible through rings and other personal effects or through teeth.

Small Door Blocked
C. S. Knoles, a worker, said the flames swept through the building in a matter of minutes.

Fred Baker, the plant, foreman, told a coroner's jury that workers attempting to escape were prevented by a pile up at a small door.

"I was outside at the time," he said, "and saw smoke coming from the room in which Joe Hest was cutting wings for toy buzz bombs. I rushed back into the room. I went to a big sliding door but couldn't get it open, so I went back outside and tried to get the door open from the outside."

"A small door in the larger sliding door was open, but the workers were so jammed in that small opening that they couldn't get out."

Clinton, about 100 miles southwest of Kansas City, has a population of 6,000.

Dead Identified
The dead were identified as Roy Burnside, 62; Frank Chanslor, 58; J. C. Hest, 62; J. S. Moyer, 70; Mrs. Edna Moyer, 54; wife of J. S. Moyer; George C. Tally, 60; Mrs. Lillian Shepard, 55; Lydia Crockett, 50; W. H. Belton, 59; Harry L. Pogue, 67; Mrs. Morton Johnson, 51; Mrs. Hazel Shepard, 40.

Accused Pair, Still in Love, Face Trial

Santa Ana, Calif., April 3—(AP)—By their own assertion still very much in love, 17-year-old Beulah Louise Overell and her fiancé, George Gollum, 21, will face Superior court action together on charges of murdering her wealthy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell.

Superior Judge Franklin G. West, sitting in Juvenile court, ruled yesterday that the blonde heiress was not to be considered a juvenile in the bizarre yacht slaying case, although she won't be 18 until April 20.

So, tomorrow morning, she and Gollum, 220-pound ex-navy radioman, will be arraigned in Judge West's Superior courtroom, both as adults.

However, by California law, conviction for Miss Overell would bring a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. She could not be sentenced to death as she was under 18 at the time her parents met death aboard ship, sunk by dynamite charge in Newport harbor March 15.

Interviewed by newsmen yesterday, the young couple reaffirmed their love, and Gollum said "yes," they still planned to be married. Earlier, they disclosed intention of being wed on her birthday.

518 Mines To Remain Closed

THE EASTER STORY

Two events of "Holy Thursday" are depicted above by the artist, Vic Donahue. Left: Judas approaches Jesus to betray him to the soldiers. "And he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, drew near unto Jesus to kiss him. But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of Man with a kiss?" Right: Peter denies Jesus. "And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest: And she saw Peter... said, and thou also was with Jesus of Nazareth. But he denied... And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by. This is one of them. And he denied it again. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him. Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice."

U. S. To Control Pacific Islands

Trusteeship Given by United Nations' Security Advisors

Agreement is Regarded as Sweeping Victory for U. S. Delegate

Lake Success, N. Y., April 3—(AP)—The vast chains of Pacific islands where Japan mounted her attack against the United States officially went under American control today through security council approval of a United Nations strategic area trusteeship.

Four hours after the unanimous council decision last night, American Delegate Warren R. Austin boarded a train for Washington with the major victory in his pocket.

Austin won the significant triumph in a bitter round of closing debate, where Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko at one point abstained on a contested section rather than exercise the veto.

Commenting that "this demonstrates that the United Nations does work," Austin took the report to Capitol Hill, where he was called before a house committee to testify on expenditures of the American U. N. delegation. Austin likewise advised his old colleagues in the senate, which must finally ratify the agreement, but this was expected to be a routine step.

Virtual Annexation
The agreement gives the United States sweeping rights, amounting to virtual annexation, under which the government may fortify the vital islands, close them at will for security reasons, and ban foreign aircraft.

Covered in the agreement were all the former Japanese mandates.

Assembly Okays Limit on Presidents

Springfield, Ill., April 3—(AP)—The Illinois legislature today ratified the proposed amendment to the United States constitution limiting future presidents to two full terms of not more than 10 years.

Voting along party lines, the Republican controlled house adopted the proposal, 80 to 50. The senate approved it 35 to 10 yesterday.

Rep. Reed Cutler (R-Lewis-ton), urging adoption of the amendment, said "There is no indispensable man. Adoption of this amendment will offset the danger of a continuing dictatorship."

This drew the reply from Rep. Paul Powell of Vienna, Democratic minority leader, that "a majority of the people in Illinois or anywhere else should determine by their vote who represents them, whether it be a coroner or a president."

Rep. Thomas Bolger (D-McHenry) said the house action was a "post mortem rebuke" to the late President Roosevelt.

Favoring the amendment, Rep. Charles Jenkins (R-Chicago) asserted "It is the foundation stone of our form of government never to give any one man too much power."

Efforts to Avert Nationwide Phone Strike Slowed Up

Washington, April 3—(AP)—John J. Moran, chairman of the National Federation of Telephone Workers policy committee, said today he knows of no existing law allowing government seizure of the telephone industry but that the phone unions would "obey" a legal seizure.

Moran, emerging from government negotiations seeking to avert Monday's threatened nationwide telephone strike, was asked by newsmen about reports that President Truman may exercise a clause in the federal communications act permitting government seizure of communications facilities in any time.

"If they seize, and there's a law against striking, we'll obey the law," Moran said.

"However, I don't know of any law which gives them the power." Truman surrendered his seizure powers under the Smith-Connally labor disputes act last December 31 when he proclaimed the end of hostilities. However, some government attorneys are reported to believe he still may seize the strike-threatened telephone industry under the communications act. The official war period has not been terminated.

Peace Efforts Slow Up

Government efforts to avert the strike moved slowly today. With 287,000 workers preparing for the walkout, federal officials concentrated on trying to break an impasse in negotiations here between the American Union of Telephone Workers and the long distance division of the American

Today's Acts, Talks in Nation's Capital Summarized by AP

Activities on Capitol Hill Briefed by Writers for Telegraph Readers

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Rep. Eaton (R-N.J.), chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, bluntly blamed Russia for inability of the United Nations to act in the Greek-Turkish situation.

Eaton made that statement as he broke into testimony of witnesses who urged that the United States rely upon the U. N. rather than act independently to aid the two countries in warding off communist domination.

Eaton declared the U. N. "has absolutely no funds to meet starvation" and has no military organization. He blamed the Russian delegate for this, saying he has "exercised a continued veto—holding back, confusing and delaying—which has made it impos-

Bedroom Rifle Range Claims Boy's Life

St. Louis, April 3—(AP)—Police Sergeant Arthur Wampler said that nine-year-old Charles Jones was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by his brother, Donald, 11, and that bullet holes in the walls of their home indicated a bedroom had been turned into a rifle range.

Wampler said 32 bullet holes were found in one wall and 24 in another.

The officer quoted Donald as saying he picked up a .22 caliber rifle and then "I just pointed it at Charles. I didn't aim. I pulled the trigger and it went off. I thought it was empty."

The youths were alone at the time after having just returned from school.

Their father, Harvey Jones, Sr., a pharmacist, told police he had discovered the weapon in the home several months ago but thought another son, Harvey, Jr., 15, had disposed of it.

Cheshiers' Hearing Is Scheduled April 15 for Sanity Quiz

Judge George C. Dixon this morning set a feeble-mindedness hearing for 1:30 p. m., April 15, in the state's case against Robert Cheshier, 21, originally charged with violation of probation, after State's Attorney Morey C. Pires said he had received an oral order from two Chicago doctors yesterday indicating Cheshier was "not amenable" to an institution.

Pires said this morning that he will file a petition for the hearing immediately.

Cheshier was taken to Chicago last week for a mental examination by Pires and Sheriff Gilbert Finch to determine if he could be released as a feeble-minded case after hearings were started on a charge of probation violation.

Meanwhile, Judge Dixon granted two divorces, modified a divorce decree and indicated he might set aside a separate maintenance decree entered March 14 in favor of Mrs. Mary Hicks, Harmon.

Mrs. Arly Jean Callender, Rockford, was awarded custody of a son, Robert, 3, who, by terms of a divorce decree entered here July 20, 1945, against Robert E. Fishel, now of Rockford, had been placed in the custody of the later's mother, Mrs. Vera Fishel. Mrs. Callender was represented by William R. Gunner, Fishel by Edwin S. Wadsworth.

Divorces were granted to Gerald R. Franks and Mrs. Ethelmae Morris, on charges of desertion and cruelty, respectively.

Franks, who testified he was married to Lavern Franks June 24, 1944, testified that she left him Feb. 28, 1946. He was represented by Lloyd Scriven, while John Buckley represented the defendant.

Mrs. Morris charged her husband, Thomas E., with extreme and repeated cruelty, and testified that they were married June 8, 1935, at DeKalb. Custody of an adopted child was granted to the defendant's mother, while Mrs. Morris was granted custody of four remaining children. She was represented by Edward Jones, Morris by Pires.

Indicating that he might set aside the separate maintenance decree.

Wealth Dreams of 28 Claimants to Cash Hoard Dimmed by State

Philadelphia, April 3—(AP)—The dreams of untold wealth of some twenty-eight claimants to the $92,800 cache found in a South Philadelphia cellar by a $75 a week bookkeeper appeared ready to blow up today in the face of a state claim on the money.

A formal claim under the escheatment act of 1899 was made by Graeme Frazier, Jr., escheator appointed in the case by David W. Harris, state secretary of revenue. Frazier served notice on city officials and the Tradesmen's National Bank & Trust company, depository for the funds, not to dispose of the money pending presentation of the commonwealth's claim.

The money was found in a cardboard box by Benjamin Lieberman early last month.

But Lieberman and 27 other would-be owners of the money haven't given up the fight. The bookkeeper, who denies any knowledge of how the money found its way into his cellar, has engaged an attorney.

And as if there were not enough fingers in the pie, special intelligence units of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the enforcement division of the Office of Price Administration are investigating. And Uncle Sam can't be counted out. The secretary of the treasury is determining just how much income tax he will collect regardless of who the lucky claimant turns out to be.

Government Order Is Issued Against 'Dangerous' Shafts

Krug's Edict Comes as John L. Lewis Testifies to House Group

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior Krug today ordered the indefinite closing of 518 coal mines for safety reasons and John L. Lewis commented: "May God in Heaven forgive him" for not closing them before 111 miners died at Centralia, Ill.

Krug announced that 2,013 other mines in government possession will be permitted to reopen next Monday at the end of the miners' six-day mourning period for the Centralia victims, provided the pits are certified as safe.

The 518 mines ordered closed by Krug because they are "believed dangerous," employ 40,000 workers.

Lewis was testifying on mine safety to a house committee

Illinois Hit

Chicago, April 3—(AP)—The forty-eight Illinois mines ordered closed indefinitely today by Secretary of the Interior Krug produce at least half of the shipping mine tonnage of the state, it was estimated from production records in the office of the Illinois Coal Operators Association.

The order will throw almost 15,000 United Mine Workers out of employment while these mines are closed, Fred Wilkey, secretary of the association, estimated. The UMW membership in Illinois is slightly less than 20,000.

The order closed 31 of the state's biggest shipping mines, including practically all those of the big Franklin county area.

These 31 big mines produced 345,000 tons of coal in 1946, the last year for which figures were available. All of the closed mines produced an estimated 36,000 tons of the 70,322,000 tons produced for shipping in that year. Present tonnage of the mines would be considered comparable with 1945.

When Krug issued the order at the interior department.

"I point out," the United Mine Workers chief said, "that Secretary Krug is doing now what he should have done ever since the safety code became effective. He's starting to enforce his own code—but after 111 men died at Centralia."

"Now on this particular day of our Lord, Mr. Krug found 518 mines not safe."

"May God in heaven forgive him for not finding those mines before and not closing them down before those men died."

Care Not for Opposition
Lewis then demanded: What should the United Mine Workers do now? He continued:

"If we must grind up human flesh and bones in the industrial machine that we call modern America then before God I assert that those who consume the coal and are made comfortable by it owe protection to those men first, and owe security to their

Son-in-Law Spends Couple's $11,000

Chicago, April 3—(AP)—An elderly couple today reported $11,000 they saved over a 22-year period was missing and police said their 27-year-old son-in-law related he took the cash for a one-day spree to "know what it felt like to spend lots of money."

The son-in-law, Lawrence Keller, was detained without charge. Police Lt. Thomas McLaughlin said Keller orally admitted taking $10,500 in currency and $500 in government bonds from a cedar chest in the home of his wife's parents, John Kippes, 62, a street car mechanic, and Elizabeth Kippes, 60.

McLaughlin said Keller, a laborer in a rubber factory, had served a year for robbery at Joliet state prison. He had been married five years and lived for two years until last Saturday with the Kippes couple, his wife, Anna, and their child, at the Kippes residence.

The police lieutenant said Keller told him he burned the bonds, spent $150 for clothes, $3,300 for a ten-passenger town car, and about $300 buying other people drinks at saloons.

McLaughlin said Keller had $510 in the car and told police he deposited $700 in a bank, but failed to explain what happened to a balance of more than $5,000 reported missing.

State Public Aid Code Proposal in State Legislature

Springfield, Ill., April 3—(AP)—Codification of state public assistance laws into a single statute was proposed today to the Illinois legislature.

The code continues the present administration of public aid programs but provides for removal of the citizenship requirement for old age pensions.

It authorizes the Illinois Public Aid commission to develop plans for prevention and elimination of economic distress and other causes of dependency. The commission previously had recommended extensive long range planning and development, especially in southern Illinois, as a means of reducing its high public aid rolls.

The code was prepared by a special commission set up by the 1945 legislature.

Other new bills introduced in the assembly would:

Reduce federal income tax payments for many Illinois residents by providing that property acquired after marriage by a husband or wife belongs to both of them. They would thus be enabled to file separate tax returns on money they receive, each reporting one-half of the family income and benefiting from the lower tax bracket.

Create a commission to revise the state's criminal laws.

Allow school districts to issue bonds or borrow money for recreational grounds and athletic fields.

Prohibit ticket scalpers from charging more than 75 cents over regular ticket prices.

List Report Order for G. I. Trainees

Veterans training under the GI bill whose Veterans Administration claim numbers end in two or three must report their earnings to the VA by April 5, Arthur M. Arehart, contact representative, VA contact office, 119 Hennepin Avenue, announced today. Approximately 3,142 veterans in Northern Illinois are affected.

Reports are required every four months from the 147,000 ex-service-men and women in the regional area who are going to school or taking job training under the bill. To facilitate operation, students have been divided into four groups, according to claim numbers. Reporting dates for each group are set at 30-day intervals. The first group reported earlier this month. Arehart reports that veterans whose claim numbers end in 4, 5 or 6 will report April 25, and those whose claim numbers end in 7, 8 and 9 will report on May 25.

Legislators Take Slap at Neighbor's Stray Cat

Springfield, Ill., April 3—(AP)—Protection of song birds is the aim of a bill introduced by three state senators who apparently believe the prowling cat's bite is worse than its meow.

The bill, introduced in the Illinois senate yesterday, would declare the "running at large of cats" a public nuisance.

"Any cat on premises other than those of its owner or keeper may, without incurring liability, be picked up by a person on the premises and turned over to police authorities or to any agency established in the community for caring for stray animals", the bill said.

"When a cat at large has been taken into custody, the owner may redeem it . . . by identifying it."

Anyone attracting birds "by food or other special devices and deliberately sending out a cat to get the birds" would be subject to a fine of $10 to $100.

The bill was sponsored by Senators William G. Knox, William J. Walsh and Roland V. Liebonati, all of Chicago.

"Play" Money Turns Out to be Worth $1,200

Plymouth, Pa., April 3—(AP)—Trotting home from school, Thomas Williams found 24 greenbacks and he laughingly distributed it as play money among his classmates.

One boy took his bill home to Pop who knew a fifty when he saw it and promptly notified police.

After a hurried roundup, the $1,200 was returned to Avelino Moro, a miner who said he lost it on the way to a bank.

Moro gave a $50 bill to Thomas.

Legislature Studies a Government Curriculum

Springfield, Ill., April 3—(AP)—The Illinois legislature has authorized creation of a commission to study whether a curriculum in government should be established by the University of Illinois.

Legislative action was completed yesterday with senate adoption of a house approved resolution providing for the commission of four legislators and four other members to be appointed by George D. Stoddard, university president.

The senate appropriation committee recommended passage of a bill appropriating $250,000 for housing university staff members. The recommendation was voted after Lloyd Movey, university comptroller, said in a statement "we can't teach students without a staff and we can't get a staff without a place for them to live."

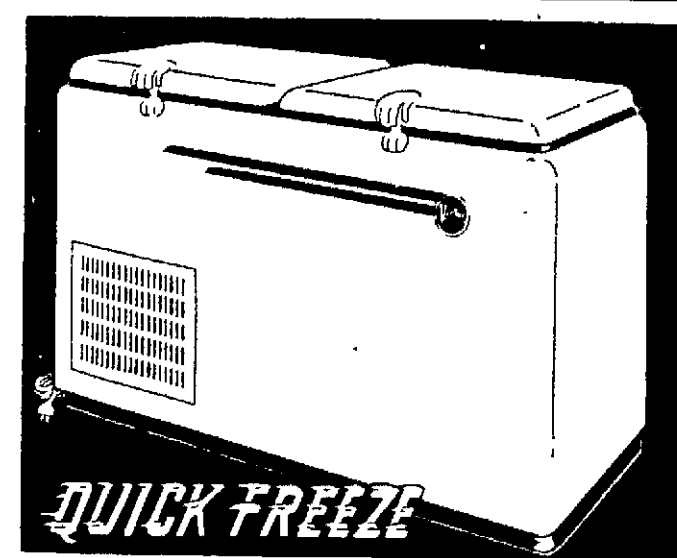

The bill already has passed the house.

An emergency appropriation of $100,000 to the public welfare department for food, supplies and operation services provided by the University of Illinois for the Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute was introduced in the house of Rep. Calistus Bruer (R-Pontiac).

Preparations

The American people have been allowing the enemies of private industry within our own borders to undermine confidence in it for the purpose of building the socialized state. It is high time to take stock of the situation and squelch the destroyers of private enterprise. The American standard of living is the result of a type of freedom for the individual that has flourished in this country for 170 years. No better example can be offered of the political drive to socialize industry than the multi-billion-dollar program for government-owned electric power plants, which has been underway for the past fifteen years.

Back in 1882, Thomas A. Edison, a courageous individual, opened the first power plant at a time when the government was still satisfied to get whale oil for lamps. Government offered Edison no subsidies and spent none of the taxpayers' money experimenting with and developing electricity.

From twenty-five cents a kilowatt hour, the average price of household electricity has dropped to three and one-third cents. This reduction in cost was accomplished by constant improvements in production and distribution, and was brought about by the ambition of private enterprise to sell electricity in a constantly greater volume. Hundreds of electric companies were responsible for this accomplishment. Government remained in its proper position as regulator rather than as a tax-exempt competitor, up to a few years ago.

But today Federal outlays for subsidized power production threaten the existence of the private industry. This violates the American principle that government is the servant not the master of its people. What inducement is there for private citizens to invent and develop new public services if the government is to become their active competitor, if they succeed? Why should government in a free nation be allowed to put them out of their chosen field of endeavor?

Opportunity to do things is no less than it was in 1882 when Edison made electricity available for use. But incentive is reduced every time government enters into competition with its citizens, because it demands special privileges and tax exemptions which are not accorded the individual.

Washington — Moscow has turned out to be Versailles all over again. The French want more coal than Germany can produce lying prone economically. The Russians have taken over the former position of the British empire and want similar reparations beyond Germany's defeated capacity. And they both want to keep Germany inert economically so she cannot produce enough for herself. The game against us at Moscow is about the same as that of Clemenceau and Lloyd George with Molotov in the role of Lloyd George and Bidault as Clemenceau, but just a bit more obvious. The United States is supposed to support Germany with food, occupation relief, perhaps even money to get her industry started. Thus we are expected actually to pay the reparations for defeated Germany. We put in, (present cost of occupation is supposed to be about $200,000,000 a year without other considerations) while they take out. Last time we had a Dawes loan eventually, after Germany could not pay, and the amount of the loan just about balanced what the other allies, excepting the United States collected in reparations. This time the Russians will not even account for the seizures they have made of everything they could lay their hands on in their zone (they call this war loot, not reparations) but want something more from ours. Indeed want the portion of Germany not theirs, to pay them permanent annual reparations.

If you wish to go all through that again, the Russians position might be accepted. What aided us in making fools of ourselves last time was an illusion that somehow our money and help would bring peace. That illusion is not visible this time in the reparations situation.

These half-stated considerations are what lie behind General Marshall's rejection of the Soviet ultimatum on reparations. He said frankly, no agreement at all was better than one like that. Marshall is not kidding. He is not playing diplomatic politics, rejecting something for effect and inwardly intending to compromise later. He means what he says.

Unquestionable semi-official sources say Marshall has been prepared to get out of Moscow and return to this country by April 15. They expect some developments tending that way next week. The other unexpected development which might prevent fulfillment of this expectation, they say, is that the Russians would suddenly agree to some concessions which would let the conference continue in some other city, possibly in London or Paris, thus preventing the conference from openly arriving at the stalemate toward which it is headed. The Soviets might do this just to avoid the public opprobrium which would follow an apparent break-up.

Either way it goes we actually would return to the status quo. Our occupation would continue. While this would continue to be costly, it would not cost as much as promising to furnish reparations to both Russia and France which cannot be produced, and permanent maintenance of Germany as a slum (Marshall's word), the cost of support being ours. Again we are being blocked in any sound peace attainment by Russia's total lack of comprehension of the word efficiency, her backward attitude which keeps her from understanding industrial production, or the simplest arithmetic of the situation.

Consequently no criticism of Marshall has developed here, and none is likely. Of course some radio commentators have been whistling in the clouds about peace resting solely on the point of keeping Germany the bloodless turnip which she is. Some have even professed to believe this is the Marshall program (the broadcasts antedated his March 31 pronouncement). Not much official attention is paid these people no matter what they say, because their line does not even approach the facts of current conditions, some of which are these:

War is far less likely to come from the Germans today than from the Greco-Turkish situation, the actual danger is that Germany may be made a drain pipe in a settlement from which the Russians can siphon off more of the substance of capitalist nations. As General Marshall says the Soviets are trying to sell us the same horse twice. He could have added that when we bought it last time we found it to be a Trojan horse.

Marshall's straight talking is judge here to have cut through the native Red propaganda, and kept the conferences in the realm of interminable argument—the realm in which the Soviets excel, except the ballet.

Turkey's Premier Fearful of War

Istanbul, April 3.—(AP)—Istanbul newspapers quoted Premier Recep Peker today as telling a group of merchants at Izmir that "it is quite possible we might wake up one morning and find ourselves in a war."

The premier's warning, press dispatches said, came last night in reply to a request that the merchants be permitted to export wheat—an item which Turkey has kept chiefly for home consumption since the beginning of the last war. "Under prevailing conditions of today our big neighbors should not declare war. It is absolutely so, but logic is not enough. We cannot judge everything according to our own logic," Peker was quoted as saying.

"Was Hitler's throwing Germany into war logical? Could not he have considered the power of the British empire and the fact that America could join the war? "It is logical that a great neighbor who has eyes on our territory would not enter war. But, however, it is quite possible we might wake up one morning and find ourselves in a war."

Two Supposed Rebel
Jews Sentenced to Die

Jerusalem, April 3.—(AP)—Meir Feinstein and David Azulai, believed to be members of the Ir-gun Zvai Leumi underground resistance organization, were sentenced to death by a Jerusalem military court today.

he had been to Sherry, and what splendid care he had taken of her, and how happy he had made her. The letter was ironical, but Sherry did not smile. There was no bitterness for Peter any more.

"I know how you must feel now," Sandro said. "But later, when you can think of someone else, will you be my wife, Sherry?" Marcia said, "Are you going to think about it?" But Sherry shook her head.

Marcia made some tea and Sherry lay on the chaise longue with the letter in her lap. They talked about the new place in the English Gardens, but all the while Sherry was thinking of Tony.

Sandro's letter had done something. She felt as if little shafts of light were penetrating her murky thought.

If that letter had been from Tony! If Tony had asked her to marry him! What would she have done? She'd have said, "Yes! Oh, yes!" and have flown to the telephone to wire him. She'd have said, "Not later, Tony, now! Right now! I'm coming to New York!"

Suddenly the dark darkness fell away. She loved Tony. She always had! There had never been anyone else in her whole life!

Marcia said, "We can move in Friday."

Sherry said, "I'm going to New York."

She started telling Marcia about Tony. How he had been living in her thoughts for days and days. She talked about the Halloween night she had first decided she loved him, and about the ride they took and the things he told her. She went on about the evening at Hidden House when he had kissed her so differently than ever before, and about how she had suffered when Tony had told the boys he could not marry her.

She said, "I love Tony! Don't you see, Marcia, I've always loved him!"

Marcia said, "You don't have to build a case, fools. I always thought you did."

"I can't write him," Sherry told her. "I've got to see him. I can tell by his face if he... Oh, he must love me, Marcia! He must!"

Hollywood

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood — (AP) — Messrs. Gregory Peck and Dana Andrews, Robert Mitchum thanks you. Boisterous Bob is capable of saying almost anything, so it's no surprise for him to toss a pass to two rival actors. He explained on the "Crossfire" set he was happy to have Dana and Greg so busy and popular and lined up for pictures well in advance.

"I'm the only guy left," he laughed, "who's not too old or tied down to an exclusive contract. So they have to use me."

Bob makes no bones about his salary, which is now $1,000 a week and pretty small potatoes for a star of his popularity. Until last November he was earning a meager $163 weekly, and he's still burning over a reported $200,000 (he could be exaggerating) which David Selznick made by lending him to Warners.

But you can bet Bob will be discussing salary before he goes to work again. "When I ask them for more money," he said, "they call me a thief. How!"

He again referred to last year's loan-outs when he was bicycling between two studios for $163 weekly—and no traveling expenses.

And what if he doesn't get his own terms?

"The hell with them—I'll go back to Lockheed."

Death Camp Commander
Must Pay With Life

Warsaw, April 3.—(AP)—Rudolf Hoess must pay with his own life for more than 4,000,000 lives snuffed out at Oswiecim (Auschwitz) extermination camp in the two and a half years he was Nazi commandant there.

The 47-year-old ex-colonel, on trial for three weeks, was sentenced to death last night by the nine-judge Polish supreme national tribunal. The condemned man was calm and attentive as he listened through headphones to the hour-long reading of the judgement. The courtroom was crowded. Hoess is permitted to ask President Boleslam Bierut for clemency, but even should he do so this seemed certain to be denied. No date was set for the execution.

Take the Laughter

Copyright by Karen DeWolf Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

MARCIA had moved over to the Chateau, but Sherry did not remember much about these days and nights. They all ran together somehow in a dull, dry hurt.

There were telephone messages, and well-meaning consolers from the studio.

Funeral parlors sent in bids like contractors on a new building, and described coffins to make them sound cozy and desirable.

Some of the other widows, strangers to Sherry, called just to talk about it all, and insurance men appeared with papers to sign.

There was an inquest, of course, and Sherry thought, This is horrible. Horrible! Like a three-ring circus.

An attorney announced that he was willing to handle her case against the studio, and talked in large sums of money.

Sherry said, "Thank you, but I don't want to sue the studio," and hung up on him.

The bank sent a man to straighten things out, and Peter's broker came, and a man from the cashier's office at the studio.

Sherry listened to them all without hearing, and said, "Thank you."

Somewhere the funeral was got through with Marcia's help, but Sherry kept thinking, This isn't true. It isn't really happening. I know I'm not thinking straight, but I don't want to realize it.

It was that night that she was frightened.

She was lying very still in bed, staring at nothing through the darkness. She saw herself and Tony coming up into Hidden House that hot October night so long ago. She felt the thrill of that first real kiss, and how terribly she had loved Tony there in his arms.

Suddenly Sherry knew what she was thinking. She sat up.

She said, "This is hideous!"

Thinking a thing like that now! You're a monster! Your head's not working right," and she buried her face in her hands.

Marcia moved in the other bed and Sherry wondered if she had spoken aloud.

Marcia said, "We'll pack up here tomorrow, no use of your keeping the apartment. Come over to the court till you decide what you're going to do."

Sherry said, "I can't go back there," very dully.

Marcia sighed.

She said, "All right, we'll hunt up something else."

It rained the next day and for days after that.

Sherry wrote thank-you letters for flowers and condolences, and gradually people let her alone.

Marcia made her do things—shop with her in the drizzle and go out to meals.

She took her to business appointments, too, and all the while they were shopping for a place to live.

Marcia kept her busy, but Sherry did not mind. She knew her head was not clear, but it was too much effort to try to rise through the fog. Besides, she was getting used to it. Everything was easier like that.

Then Tony kept popping up, but she could not go on fighting Tony. When she was tired she thought of his shoulders and the curve of his strong young arms. When she remembered how dependable he was and how practically he went about things, when other people talked she knew what Tony would have answered, what he would have said to this and that.

THE day they found the apartment the letter from Sandro came.

He was shocked at the accident, and was clear and sympathetic. He praised Peter and lauded his virtues. He went on about how good

Britannica Painting Collection to Be Shown in Davenport April 11--May 4

Comprising 127 canvases, the Encyclopaedia Britannica collection of contemporary American paintings, each by a 20th century U. S. artist, will be shown in Davenport, from April 11 through May 4, it was announced by E. H. Powell, Britannica president. The paintings will be exhibited at the Davenport Municipal Art gallery.

Britannica's paintings will come to the Quad-Cities from St. Louis where they were on view at the St. Louis City Art Museum until March 20. Following the exhibition in Davenport, they will be taken to other museums and galleries throughout the country in a tour that is expected to extend for at least five years.

When, in September, 1943, Britannica executives decided to commission the painting of a number of pictures to illustrate several articles in Britannica publications, they had no idea that hardly two years later they would have gathered together, as the result of this idea, a representative collection of contemporary American paintings.

Aledo Native's Work

Paul Sample of Vermont, for example, was asked to paint a scene descriptive of "Maple Sugar in Vermont." Doris Lee, a native of Aledo, painted "Arbor Day" to illustrate an article on that subject. Robert Philipp, born in New York, made a painting descriptive of an impression of the play, "Harriet" starring Helen Hayes, to go with an article on the theater. Several other artists were in that original list of those painting expressly for the Britannica publications.

But, as the paintings began arriving at the Britannica headquarters offices in Chicago, the idea of extending the project to form an adequate collection of contemporary American paintings was inescapable.

By December, 1943, Britannica's plans were complete. It would attempt to gather together a collection of representative paintings, from the academic to the abstract, by outstanding American artists who have painted during the 20th century.

Choice by Questionnaire

To make sure that personal preferences in painters, which would inevitably stamp so large a collection if the pictures were chosen by only one or two persons, would not influence the choices, Powell devised a questionnaire which was sent to about fifty artists, museum directors and art dealers throughout the United States. From this questionnaire Britannica was able to determine which artists a cross section of the art experts of America believed to be not only the best in the United States, but also those whose contributions directly through their paintings, teaching and influence were doing most to vindicate American art and to "sell" American art to Americans.

Of the painters represented, at least a third, of them, such as Thomas Hart Benton, John Steuart Curry, Grant Wood and Charles Burchfield, are so deservedly well known that the necessity of their inclusion was obvious. The problem, therefore, was to determine how many more and which ones were needed to complete a representative collection. The questionnaire gave the answers.

While Britannica believes that the present collection is admirable in its representation of American artists, it acknowledges the absence of several prominent painters whose work would add to the value of the collection. Better work by some good artists is temporarily unavailable, either because the artists are not producing paintings, or because good work by some artists is already in collections which are not to be broken up.

As paintings by other artists become available they will be reviewed by Britannica with the thought of adding them to the collection, Powell added.

Let Factories in Germany Pay Debts, Marshall Declares

Reparations Would Be Paid From Current Production Gains

Moscow, April 3.—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall told the council of foreign ministers today the United States would be willing to consider limited German reparations from current production, but only if the allied powers agreed to leave in Germany a number of plants now earmarked for capital reparations.

At the same time Marshall proposed the compromise formula, he reaffirmed in a paper circulated among Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault that "present demands to increase the reparations agreed upon at Potsdam cannot be considered by the United States."

This was a restatement of his qualified opposition to Molotov's demand for $10,000,000,000 over 20 years.

Marshall's new proposal, which previously was taken up briefly in a secret session last Tuesday, is based, he said, on the assumption that the German level of industry is to be raised and that plants now marked for reparations export can be used to boost the level.

Unacceptable To Reds

Informants said the proposition was first informally laid before the other three foreign ministers by the American secretary at the council of foreign ministers' executive session Tuesday.

While it was described as amounting to a compromise proposal between the United States, British and Russian positions on the reparations deadlock, it was said at the same time to be entirely unacceptable to the Russians in its present form.

Members of the American delegation, however, said the proposal represented about the extreme limit to which Marshall is willing to go in order to meet Soviet Minister V. M. Molotov on this vital issue.

Russians have asked $10,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany over a 20-year period, some of it from current production, and the stand of the western powers against this demand coupled with Molotov's refusal to retreat from it, has blocked all efforts to reach a settlement of any basic German issues.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Marshall's top adviser on German problems, left Moscow for Berlin by plane today and his departure was widely interpreted as meaning that the American delegation sees little prospect of effecting major settlements at this conference.

Essence of Proposal:

Marshall's reparations proposal, in essence, was described by authoritative sources to be about as follows:

Many non-ammunition factories which were supposed to have been destroyed in Germany for reparations have not been destroyed. These factories could profitably be used in Germany if the Big Four agreed on a higher level of industrial production, which they seem inclined to do.

Therefore, Marshall suggests, figure out the value of factories which would have been as capital reparations, leave these factories in Germany and pay to the allied nations a similar value in reparations out of current production over the next several years.

Marshall proposed last night that the whole issue of Germany's future political organization be thrown into the lap of the allied control council in Berlin without further efforts to reach agreement here.

This suggestion followed a unanimous decision by the foreign ministers that no agreements on political unification could be made effective until economic unity is achieved.

Floyd Shepard, a worker whose wife died in the fire, told a reporter that she was being led from the building when she suddenly remembered her daughter-in-law was in the plant. She cried, "Oh, Hazel," and ran back into the building. Their bodies were found later in the debris.

L. W. Brown who operated the firm said the plant began production last July. He estimated the amount of powder in the building at from 50 to 100 pounds and could give no reason for the explosion.

Victory or Defeat Vote Listed Today in Lilienthal Row

Seven Days of Debate to End With Ballot on a Recommittal Motion

Washington, April 3.—(AP)—President Truman's senate lieutenant checked the membership roll name by name today in preparation for a vote they expect to spell defeat or victory in their drive to confirm David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the atomic energy commission.

That vote—on a motion to send the nomination back to committee—was set for 4 p. m. today by unanimous consent of a senate thoroughly saturated with seven days of more or less continuous debate.

The chamber put in an 11 hour and 22 minute session yesterday, which kept members at their desks until nearly midnight.

The administration, deeply concerned by the 10-week delay since the nomination was sent on to Capitol Hill, made no attempt to minimize the importance of the recommittal motion offered by Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) yesterday.

Its objective is to "put an FBI check of Lilienthal and the five other atomic set-up nominees and a further committee quiz into the people's commission members have heard since they took over their posts under recess appointments last winter before congress convened."

"Adoption of the motion would be tantamount to defeat of David Lilienthal," a highly placed strategist in close touch with the White House told a reporter.

At the same time, he said he believed that Lilienthal's supporters could muster a margin of "two or three" votes on the decisive roll call.

Such a close estimate of the final tally obviously meant the outcome was in doubt. Lilienthal's opponents—and they include three of the senate's Republican "Big Five"—were sparing no effort in their last minute effort to switch commitments.

Vandenberg To Speak

One of the loudest trumpets in the Lilienthal band was awaiting the signal to solo. The performer, Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich), president pro tempore of the senate, chairman of its foreign relations committee, and foreign adviser to the administration.

Vandenberg voted for Lilienthal in the atomic energy committee. His vote was part of the 8 to 1 majority for the former chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority. Only Bricker voted "no" in that committee.

Vandenberg estimated to a reporter that his address would take no more than half an hour. But his attitude was considered extremely significant in view of the anti-Lilienthal stand of Republican Floor Leader White of Maine, Republican Whip Wherry of Nebraska, and Policy Committee Chairman Taft of Ohio.

Predict Continued Civil War Within Greece

Athens, April 3.—(AP)—A spokesman for the leftist EAM forecast today continued civil war in Greece unless the internal political situation was changed. King George II's funeral procession moved through the streets as the warning was voiced.

The cortege proceeded over a mile route from the palace to the Athens cathedral, where the monarch will lie in state until services starting Sunday morning. George died Tuesday of a heart attack.

The new king, Paul I. and the crown prince, six-year-old Constantine, followed unattended, hand in hand, directly behind the slowly moving coffin.

The warning from the EAM of continued warring in the divided nation unless the change of kings meant a change in internal politics was considered ominous, because it came from the political-military organization of the chief opposition element.

"I say it, I voice it. I proclaim it. And I care not who in heaven or hell opposes it."

At one point, Lewis accused Krug of "lying" and demanded "that he be removed from his high office."

Recalling the work agreement which he signed last year with Krug, he said: "We knew that the coal operators wouldn't keep the mines safe. . . . That's the reason why we asked Krug to do it."

"He promised me, didn't he? Or did he? Why, he signed it with me at the White House under the klieg lights and the miners believed him. They didn't know he was lying. They know now that he was lying and they are joining me in demanding that he be removed from his high office."

Krug "Modern Hercules"

Lewis called Krug: "This modern Hercules with the number 12 shoe and the size five hat."

Scornfully Lewis "drawled" that this "Hercules" had "reduced mine fatalities from 95 a month to 85 a month and then rested from his labors."

Krug's announcement came as Lewis appeared before a house labor subcommittee to renew his charge that the Centralex miners died "because of criminal negligence of J. A. Krug."

Recalling that he had made the statement originally before a senate hearing last week, Lewis told the committee:

"I have not said that J. A. Krug by an affirmative action killed these men. I say that by his inaction he has permitted them to die."

"He withheld from them succor that it was in his power to give. . . . He stands at the top with nothing to stop him from making the coal mines safe, except his lack of desire to do so."

Private Owners "Worse"

But asked by Rep. Kearns (R-Pa) whether private owners carried out safety measures better than the government, Lewis replied: "No, worse."

The UMW chief added quickly "that doesn't excuse the government for not enforcing its own contract terms."

This was reference to a mine safety code provision in the UMW contract with the government.

Frequently emphasizing his remarks by banging his fist on a table, Lewis called the mines "death traps" and declared that "every man who goes to work in a coal mine will be statistically killed or injured every six years."

Approximately 40,000 miners are employed at the 518 mines which Krug said are "believed dangerous from an explosion point of view."

These pits will be closed until certified by the local union's mine safety committee and the operating managers or until new inspections determine that they are reasonably safe."

Re-examinations Ordered

Krug said that a review of inspection reports did not indicate unduly hazardous conditions in 2,013 mines. But he directed an immediate re-examination of safety conditions and practices along with consideration of any federal or state inspection reports.

Navy Captain N. H. Collisson, coal mines administrator, called on Lewis to submit the names of any other mines "which the union considers so hazardous as to require closing."

Collisson said that the three steps now provided for removing men from unsafe mines proved inadequate March 25 in the Centralex disaster in which 111 miners lost their lives.

These steps provide that (a) the local union safety committee may require the withdrawal of miners from unsafe mine areas; (2) if imminent danger exists the federal inspector may require withdrawal of the miners, and (3) the federal inspector reports serious danger by telephone so the coal mines administrator can move immediately to withdraw the miners.

Utmost Speed Urged

Krug directed Collisson and Dr. R. R. Sayers, director of the bureau of mines, "to proceed with the utmost speed to check safety conditions in the miners where the mine safety committee and the management can not agree and permit prompt reopening of those mines under safe working conditions."

In order to reopen the 518 mines considered hazardous, a safety certificate will be required from the union safety committee and the mines manager, Krug said. If agreement cannot be reached on the safety certificate, a federal inspector will be sent as soon as possible to go through the mine again and recommend when it can be opened.

The 518 mines which will remain closed are scattered throughout the nation. The interior department estimates the daily output of these mines at 330,000 tons of bituminous coal.

It is hoped to have the building ready for use by September.

Sterlingite Arraigned—William R. LaFever of Sterling has been arraigned before Justice J. O. Shaulis in Dixon on a warrant secured by Stoddard Danekas, state conservation department inspector. LaFever is charged with failing to permit an officer of the department of conservation to inspect a vehicle for wild birds unlawfully possessed on January 26 of this year. Hearing on the case was continued until Monday and LaFever was released upon furnishing bond of $500 and has retained Attorney Kenneth W. Miller of Sterling to represent him at the trial.

"All Hope Given Up"—Berlin, April 3.—(AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay declared on his arrival today from Moscow that "all hope has been given up of reaching a settlement on reparations at this conference." The American military governor for Germany, who was Secretary of State Marshall's chief advisor on German affairs in Moscow, said the conference in the Russian capital was "not proving a failure, but also is not proving a success." He told a news conference at Tempelhof airfield that he had hoped to be back in Berlin two weeks ago, before the deadlock arose in Moscow.

Larger appropriations to pay similar grants were proposed in two separate bills submitted by Rep. Leo D. Crowley (R-Peoria) and Reps. Homer Harris (R-Lincoln), R. J. Branson (R-Centralia) and Robert H. Allison (R-Pekin).

Rep. Paul Powell of Vienna, Democratic minority leader, urged immediate action on Brans' plan, declaring that the mine victims would "soon be forgotten except by their widows and children."

All three measures were referred for committee study.

In the senate, a bill filed by Senators Ora A. Oldfield (R-Centralia) and John W. Fribley (D-Pana) also sought $5,000 maximum payments, one-half going to the widow with the remaining $2,500 apportioned among the children. Senator Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the appropriations committee, sharply protested against what he called a barrage of "phony complaints" against a proposed cut in customs bureau appropriations.

On portal pay legislation, the senate and house conferees failed to reach agreement on proposals to ban all pending and future portal pay suits. Senator Donnell (R-Mo), spokesman for the conference declined to report progress of discussions and said the conferees "agreed to adjourn until April 10."

After weeks of hearing and debate, the senate headed today into a test vote that will show how members line up on confirmation of David E. Lilienthal for the important post of atomic energy commission chairman.

The vote, set for 4 p. m. (CST) is on a motion to return the nomination to committee for further consideration and an FBI investigation.

Lilienthal supporters concede that if the motion is successful it will be tantamount to defeat for President Truman's nominee. On the other hand they would regard its defeat as a long step to eventual victory.

With both sides expecting a close vote, opposing camps were carefully checking their membership roll. One Lilienthal supporter predicted a margin of "two or three votes" in the decisive test.

Debate over Lilienthal was resumed today after a 11 hour and 22 minute session yesterday that lasted until nearly midnight.

Ruhr Coal Miners Walk Out; Demand Food for Families

Essen, April 3.—(AP)—The Ruhr's giant coal industry came to an almost complete standstill today as most of the area's 300,000 miners ignored British appeals to remain on the job and walked out in a demand for more food for their families.

Workmen at the mines in Dortmund and Hamborn, who struck earlier in the week, entered the pits as usual, however, apparently satisfied with the part they had already taken in the demonstration.

Miners in the Cologne area—technically not part of the Ruhr—remained on the job. But reports from throughout the Ruhr indicated that most of its 170 mines were idle in a strike expected to cause a loss in production of half a million tons of badly needed coal.

In almost every mining town—diab today in drizzling rain—workmen failed to show up on the job—despite an "urgent request" made by authorities in a radio broadcast in German last night. The walkout order was issued by mine union leaders yesterday at Bochum.

"Petticoat Strike"

Some officials described the demonstration as a "petticoat strike." They said the miners with the highest ration in Germany, had no reason to strike on their own behalf but must have listened to wives' complaints that they and their children lacked food.

One responsible official pointed out that a miner's family got only the normal ration—1,550 calories a day is standard in the U. S. and British occupation zone—and that this had not been met.

This official expressed confidence that their emotions released in a one-day walkout, the miners would return to work and production gradually would begin to climb back to normal.

Because of the Easter holiday, however, full-scale resumption of work was not expected before next week.

Railroads use about 25 per cent of the bituminous coal produced in the United States.

See Weekend "Crisis"

Every sign pointed to an Easter weekend "crisis" on the stalemate negotiations, with any agreement likely to come only at the eleventh hour.

A nationwide strike was prevented a year ago only minutes before the walkout deadline. The break came then as the result of a settlement in the long distance segment of the Bell System. Other Bell companies quickly accepted similar terms of $5 to $8 weekly wage boosts.

Those close to the current negotiations said privately that a union-company agreement to arbitrate their dispute appears to be the most likely solution if a strike is to be averted.

But they added that, barring company counter-offers, an agreement to arbitrate will be hard to wrangle from the unions. The Bell companies have taken the position a general, industry-wide increase cannot be justified at this time.

Twas Stormy Night That Duck Flew in Through the Floor

Aged Veteran of Atlantic Spins a Few Yarns for AP Writer

By HAL BOYLE
Oeracoke, N. C.—(AP)—“Big Ike” O’Neal can still hear the sea, but it doesn’t say anything to him anymore.

“Ain’t done a stroke of work for eleven years now,” said “Big Ike,” sitting in a rocker in the weathered frame house where he lives now, a sailor home from the waves.

Almost 82, “Big Ike” is one of the few veterans of the era of sail left on this small island off the North Carolina coast, part of the “Outer Banks” which seamen know as the graveyard of the Atlantic.

Time has chipped away some of “Big Ike’s” 240 pounds but hasn’t bent his six foot-three frame. Nor has it slowed his fondness for “yarning” about the days when the Hatteras shoals seized rich ships and turned them into sea skeletons.

Recalls Two High Spots
O’Neal has been a sailor between the coast and the West Indies, a fisherman, a Coast Guardsman, a game warden and carried the U. S. mail.

Two events that stand out in his crowded memory are the first time he ever ate white flour bread and the night the duck flew in through his cottage floor.

“I was 11 years old and never tasted anything but corn meal,” he said. “My brother and a fellow bought a barrel of flour in New York, paid $10.00 for it. We spread a sheet out on the floor, rolled the barrel on it and divided the barrel by sawing it in half. The flour was packed so tight it didn’t even crumble or spill.”

“You know I didn’t sleep at all that night, wondering what flour bread would taste like in the morning.”

Duck Hits Ceiling
It was in “the big storm of 18 and 99” that “Big Ike” had his locally famous encounter with the mysterious duck.

“Longest storm we ever had—lasted from Tuesday afternoon to Friday night,” he said. “Had nothing but my skins on, and there were three or four families in the house—children crying, women screaming, men praying, and water rising outside.”

“I was afraid the house would float right off its blocks. I thought if I opened a hole in the kitchen it would equalize the pressure, and help hold the house down.”

“I took my ax, hit it a lick. I pulled up a plank, the water slopped in and a big white duck flew up and didn’t stop until he hit the ceiling. He was quacking as loud as God would let him.”

“I was more than skeered. I caught the duck and put him in a box, but I didn’t have any appetite for him then. Didn’t cook him until the storm was over.”

England Determined to Maintain Status Within Big 3 Ranks

Passage of Peace-Time Conscription Bill by Commons Decisive

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)
England has given no more impressive exhibition of determination to whip her economic crisis and defend her interests at home and abroad than we have just witnessed in the circumstances surrounding the passage of the peace-time conscription bill through its second (and decisive) reading in the House of Commons. That measure is a live bomb, providing as it does for the calling of some 200,000 men between 18 and 26 annually for service in the armed forces. It comes in the midst of a grave economic crisis. Britain is living in frugal austerity on borrowed money, and its essential industries are lagging because of lack of manpower.

Hit By Power Shortage
Moreover, owing to the shortage of miners the country for weeks has been without adequate fuel and light because of scarcity of coal, and to make the cup of misery overflow, England has been wading through hell and high water, due to unprecedented storms and floods.

Could one imagine a tougher moment in which to present a bill for the conscription of manpower into the army, the navy and the airforce? Yet the Socialist government is determined to keep the country on an armed footing which will provide adequate defense and maintain Britain's prestige as one of the Big Three. And in this emergency the Conservatives, who politically are the mortal foes of the Socialists, turned to and supported the government when it was faced with a split in its own party. What happened was that a considerable left-wing section of the Labor (Socialist) party deserted the government over this issue—enough so that Prime Minister Attlee's ministry might have been overthrown if the big Conservative minority had joined with the Socialist dissidents. But former Prime Minister Churchill led his followers into the fight for Attlee, with the result that the measure was adopted by a vote of 386 to 85—a result which doesn't show the full extent of the leftist revolt, since quite a bloc of members refused to vote.

Shows Nation's Faith
Conscription was opposed on several grounds. Those who fought it maintained that industry needs men more than do the armed forces, that conscription is inconsistent with labor party policy, and that the cost of the armed services is excessive. Some extreme leftists also opposed it as hostile to Russia.

The conscription act would run for five years and Defense Minister Alexander says that by 1954 it would produce a trained reserve of 700,000. At present

Britain has some 1,500,000 men on active service—a tremendous fighting machine. The government is trying to reduce this number to 1,000,000 by March 31, '48—still a great force.

With all this evidence at hand, can any doubt that John Bull not only is determined to see his crisis through, but that he has faith in himself. That's a question of vast importance in these days when the world unhappily is divided into two camps, and Britain is siding with America.

Democrats to Hold Pop Confabs; Hope to Patch Up Party

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Democratic leaders apparently carried the blessings of President Truman today in a new effort to patch up party differences represented on one hand by former Vice President Wallace and the other by Senator Byrd of Virginia.

Byrd, who is widely regarded as taking more conservative line, was invited along with leaders from four other states to the first of a series of national committee pop meetings.

The Virginia senator has been openly critical of President Truman's proposal for this nation to go it alone in helping Greece and Turkey—as Wallace and the other two frequently are poles apart on other issues.

Early Campaign Start
In announcing the series of meetings, Gael Sullivan, the committee's executive director, said that everything from foreign policy to the high cost of living would be discussed. But he made it fairly plain that the main idea is to get Democratic wheelhorses together for an early and harmonious start on the 1948 presidential campaign.

Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania leaders were on the list to meet with cabinet and other officials today. April 10, the Democratic chieftains from Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont will come to town for similar conferences.

Wallace, who has classed himself with self-described Democratic "liberals," apparently will get as warm a welcome as any other party member when he arrives to hear President Truman address the Jefferson day dinner, Saturday night.

Restore German Economy

Gen. McNarney Urges

Frankfurt, April 3—(AP)—

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney left

Germany by air for Washington

today, warning the Big Four not to make a "sink-hole of chaos" out of Germany.

McNarney, former commander of American forces in Europe who will become chairman of the United States delegation to the United Nations military staff committee, declared in a forceful talk to the press before boarding his plane:

"It is essential that the economy of Germany be restored to a reasonable basis.

"This must be done unless Germany is to become a sinkhole of chaos in the middle of Europe that not only would delay the recovery of neighboring countries but may also sink them into chaos."

McNarney is expected to reach

Washington tomorrow morning.

Five-Day Banking Week Idea Spreads Across the Nation

New York, April 3—(AP)—Movements to place banking operations on a five-day week have taken root in nearly half the states, including most of the heavily populated areas, surveys showed today.

Laws permitting such action have been approved in a dozen states.

A large group of banks in New York state joins this Saturday the ranks of financial institutions in New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire which have already started the practice of closing their doors on Saturdays.

Behind the spread of the five-day week in financial circles lies the increasing difficulty banks have experienced in retaining clerical help against the attractions of offices which observe Saturday closing schedules.

Bill Introduced in Illinois

The need for remedial action

became so urgent in the past year in many sections that bankers gave their support to legislation

permitting them to institute

Saturday holidays.

In addition to the eastern states

named above, an American

Bankers association survey shows,

such laws have been approved in California, Delaware, Georgia,

Wisconsin, Maryland and Washington. While legislation has been initiated in Illinois, Maine, Ohio,

Missouri, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania.

Attempts to obtain laws permitting Saturday holidays were defeated in Indiana, Iowa, Utah and Vermont. The A.B.C. survey indicated such legislation was regarded as impossible in twenty other states.

Commies' UNRRA Aid Very Minor

Shanghai, April 3—(AP)—More than 60 employees of UNRRA's China office today charged the Chinese government had kept all but two per cent of UNRRA supplies from Communist-controlled areas.

Territory controlled by the Communists, the UNRRA employees declared, hold one-third of the nation's population.

The protest was contained in a resolution which the signers requested their director, Maj. Gen. Glen Edgerton, to forward to UNRRA headquarters in Washington and to the Chinese government.

It came on the heels of UNRRA charges that Chinese government planes bombed and strafed an UNRRA relief vessel at the Communist port of Shinkiao yesterday, wounding the captain and two crewmen.

There was no immediate comment from government sources.

Cadogan Raps Russ Corfu Case Veto

Lake Success, N. Y., April 3—(AP)—Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain attacked Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today for vetoing a British resolution in the Corfu channel mine-blast case against Albania. The will of the United Nations security council had been "strangled by a single vote," the British delegate told the council as it resumed debate on Albania.

Cadogan then asked the council to send the Albanian case to the international court of justice.

It was the first British backlash at the veto cast by Gromyko last week killing a British resolution which found that mines could not have been laid in Corfu channel without the knowledge of Albania. The mines wrecked two British destroyers and killed 44 sailors last Oct. 22.

Band Leader Looking For Jawbone of Ass

London, April 3 — (AP) — Orchestra Leader Santiago Lopez, who does not otherwise resemble Sampson, was looking all over London today for the jawbone of an ass — not to kill Philistines but to play hepatics in a west end night club.

Until he accidentally left his — or rather the donkey's — jawbone in a subway train yesterday, as Lopez used it to make rhythmic noises and add a South American flavor, as he put it, to the music of his rumba orchestra.

"It will be very hard to replace," he said. "There are plenty of jawbones about, but they're cheap things, from carthorses and the like. A donkey's jawbone makes a delightful sound, like the rattling of a skelton."

New Jet Bomber Flies First Test Over Coast

San Diego, Calif., April 3 — (AP) — A long, slim experimental plane powered by four axial-flow jets and described by its builders as the fastest bomber produced in this country flew from here to Muroc dry lake on its initial test hop of one hour and 33 minutes yesterday.

There the Consolidated-Vultee XB-46, the second jet propelled bomber built in the United States, will undergo further tests by the army.

Exact speed of the XB-46 on the test flight was kept secret. Its gross weight was given as 91,000 pounds, and its useful load, 42,982 pounds.

"FLYING" SPIDERS
Balloon spiders have been found two miles above the earth by U. S. government scientists using insect traps on airplanes. These spiders do not have the power of flight, but are carried aloft by wind.

In World War I, 80,000 floats of balsa wood were used to support an Allied mine barrage in the North Sea.

Bringing War Dead Home Still Remains Unanswered Query

Relatives Not Making a Snap Decision on Problem

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Should the remains of Americans who died abroad in World War II be brought home for burial?

Their families are not making a snap decision on this, but three fourths of those the government has heard from say yes.

Congress has authorized bringing the bodies back to this country at government expense if the relatives desire.

The war department quarter-master corps sent out its first 20,000 letters of inquiry to the next of kin of soldiers, sailors and Marines early in March.

So far it has had fewer than 1,000 replies. But more than 75 per cent of these want the dead to lie in U. S. ground.

Maj. Gen. Thomas B. Larkin, the quarter-master general, is charged with the responsibility of carrying out the repatriation program. He had hoped to see it begin in August. But now it is believed it will be September or October before it starts.

Lack of Caskets

This is because of difficulty in getting a supply of steel caskets, located next of kin—many of whom have moved—and the seeming indecision of the living.

That families take their time to decide—talk it over with relatives and their clergy, if desired—is approved by the War department. It is seen as a question not to be answered quickly or without thought.

America's overseas dead in the first world war totaled about 51,000 of whom nearly 60 per cent were brought home for burial.

In World War II the toll was 285,000. About 24,000 bodies have not been recovered.

Release List Soon

The War department estimated that 80 per cent of the relatives would want remains returned.

It is possible this estimate may be revised downward.

Within the next week or 10 days, the War department plans to release a list of those buried in Hawaii; St. Laurent, France; Henri Chapelle, Belgium; Cambria, England; Nettuno, Italy; Gela, Sicily; and at Casablanca, Algeria and Tunis, North Africa. The first bodies will be brought home from these areas.

The present intention is to return first the bodies of soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines buried at Hawaii, the target of the first bombs to fall on American territory in the last war. A few days later shiploads will be coming in from Europe.

200 Temporary Cemeteries

America's war dead from battles on land and sea through North

Wins Promotion

Carl Martin, field scout executive of the Blackhawk Area council, has been promoted to the position of Scout Executive of the Potawatomi area council with headquarters at Waukegan, Wis. He will assume his new duties May 1.

Martin started his Scouting career as a Tenderfoot Scout, and as an adult he was responsible for organizing a Boy Scout troop in his church in Oakshosh. He served as Scoutmaster of this unit three years, later organizing a troop in Madison, Wis., and serving as Scoutmaster for two years.

An ardent camper and lover of the outdoors, he has directed a summer camp for two years and spent two summers at Region Seven Camp base for Senior Scouts at Boulder Junction, Wis.

He joined the staff of the Blackhawk Area council 3½ years ago, and has served Lee, Ogle and Whiteside counties as Field Scout executive since that time.

Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Germany and the islands in the Pacific have been buried in 203 temporary cemeteries.

Some of these cemeteries will be made into "permanent" resting places for those whose relatives decide against bringing them back to this country.

In this decision the War department is neutral. But a new army movie short, "Decision," which shows a family going through the return of a loved one, seeks to warn what the strain will be.

Mrs. George Patton does not intend to disturb the grave of the colorful Third army commander, who died in an automobile accident in Germany and was buried at Hamm, Luxembourg.

In a "Letter to the American People" published in the Congressional Record she said "what will come home to you isn't what you remember and love."

(Telegraph Special Service)

Oregon—The Oregon Woman's Relief Corps voted to turn over $25 to a home for dependent children at Normal, Ill., $5 to the Red Cross, and $1 to the memorial fund at a meeting Friday afternoon.

Three new members, Mrs. Grace Olson, Mrs. Evelyn McDowell and Mrs. Martha Black, were also initiated at the meeting.

The following corps members: Mesdames Emma Kinn, Lucille Lumsden, Olive Reed, Vena Colson, Marie Pettenger, Ethel Coe, Verda Huffman, Pauline Stage, Anna Thayer and Miss Ida Springsteen went to Rochelle Thursday night to instruct the Corps there in seating of officers.

Mrs. Ethel Coe, hospital chairman, gave a report of two boxes sent to Hines Memorial hospital, containing magazines, bed jackets, T binders, and jigsaw puzzles. Another box containing magazines was sent to Elgin State hospital, containing magazines, tooth brushes, spools and cold cream jars.

this year, it's here!

Once again, your family can enjoy this time-honored Easter custom—Old Homestead Ham for that very special Easter dinner!

Old Homestead is the ham that will give you the utmost in enjoyment because it comes from the top-choice of corn-belt porkers. It's prepared by a special process that retains and develops all the rich ham flavor, yet gives you "center-slice" tenderness from end to end. New King May Aid Anti-Red Fight in Tiny, Fiery Greece

Late King George Short
on "Guts"; Need Hard, Strong Leader

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst).
The Greeks again have heard the fateful words which have come echoing down through the centuries: "The king is dead; long live the king!" and should their new ruler have a modicum of understanding and guts (if one may be permitted this very un-regal expression) he may give his liberty-loving people the leadership they need to escape totalitarian communism.

The late King George was a colorless individual who lacked leadership — lacked guts. His whole vicissitudinous life was marked by this deficiency. What the new king, Paul, will produce remains to be seen but, as this column remarked yesterday, he scarcely can be less efficient than his brother.

Critical Period Now
This is, of course, a particularly critical moment for the Athens government. It might inspire the Red elements to redouble their efforts to overthrow the government, though paradoxically the saving grace in this instance could lie in the very weakness of the late king. He provided little guidance or personality to be missed by the people or government.

Thus far there has been no indication that the position of Greece, as one of the key bastions of democracy against aggressive communism, has been changed.
President Truman's proposal for help to this tiny little Balkan state still stands, and congress continues its study of the proposition. The Greek government shows no signs of weakening in the face of the Red offensive.

Simultaneously with this sensational development, another throne came under the spot-light—that of Spain—and it's a peculiar coincidence that this country, like Greece, is so strategically situated that both communism and western democracy would give much to see it under their respective isms and within their respective zones of influence. For what happens in Spain will have a mighty effect on the political trend in France—where the Communistic electoral vote has been running neck and neck with that of the opposition —and, consequently, upon the whole of western Europe.

Franco To Retire?
It's significant that world attention has been drawn to the Spanish crown by none less than Generalissimo Franco himself. He has asked his parliament to declare that Spain still is a monarchy and to designate the procedure for selecting the next ruler. Thus the dictator would seem to be paving the way for the return—sooner or later—of one of the royal princes to assume the crown which was abandoned by Alfonso XIII when the republic was established in 1931. Don Juan, the pretender to the throne, is the principal contender.

"There are many who believe that Franco may have a fairly early retirement in mind.
It strikes me as possible that the generalissimo finally has hit upon some method whereby he can withdraw without lowering his head too much. However, that's speculation based on the belief that he was ready to retire a year ago. Certainly Spain won't profit in the long run by his continuance as dictator with almost the whole world against him.

Roxas Joins U. S. for Probe of Army Thefts

Baguio, Philippine Islands,
April 3—(AP)—President Roxas disclosed today that he had ordered investigators of the Department of Justice to work with the U. S. army in tracing huge losses of goods at American army supply depots in the Philippines.
The Manila Evening News
quoted Presidential Secretary Emilio Abello as saying that Filipinos who took part in pilfering merely bought the goods from U. S. soldiers "who took them from their own depots."

East St. Louis Loser Protests Irregularities

East St. Louis, Ill., April 3 — (AP)—Richard Carter, one of the defeated independent candidates for the city council in Tuesday's election, says the current St. Clair county grand jury will be asked to investigate the balloting in which an administration slate won a narrow victory by rolling up huge majorities in Negro precincts.

Joe Gerold, Carter's campaign manager, charged that in one Negro precinct, Joseph W. Ganschin-letz, an administration candidate for the council, was credited with 112 more votes than the total independent watchers found he had received. Gerold also said independent watchers alleged irregularities occurred in two other precincts.

Carter, a former army pilot, ran fifth in an eight-man field from which the top four men were elected. On the basis of complete unofficial returns he was 28 votes behind Russell T. Beebe, another independent, and 69 behind Ganschinletz.

An official retabulation of the vote in each precinct was being made today.

Slain Man's Brother Wounded in Ambush

Joliet, Ill., April 3—(AP)—Dennis Kelly, 34-year-old agent for a labor union and brother of the slain Will county juke box king, was seriously wounded last night
by a gunman who, police said, probably stalked him in an automobile.

Police Chief Ernest E. Overby
said Kelly was shot in a shoulder and lung as he swung his car into a side street in the northern part of the city. He expressed belief the 45 caliber bullets were fired by a gunman who had been following Kelly in another car.
Kelly is business agent for the AFL Bar, Hotel and Restaurant Employees union, local 714. His brother, Leahm, Will county Democratic political figure and juke box operator here for 10 years, was shot from ambush last October as he emerged from his car with his family in the driveway of his home.

Canadians Censor All Information on Atom

Ottawa, April 3—(AP)—Information about atomic energy has been placed under peacetime censorship in Canada by new government regulations replacing wartime controls.

No information about atomic energy may be disclosed without government approval under the new regulations, which were announced last night by C. D. Howe, minister of reconstruction and supply.

There are veins of coal under about two-thirds of Illinois.

Harvester Workers Give Strike Notice

Chicago, April 3—(AP)—A 30-day strike notice against the International Harvester Co. was filed yesterday by the CIO Farm Equipment Workers union.
The union claims to represent 30,000 workers in 10 plants. Five of them are in Chicago, two in the quad-cities (Davenport, Ia., Rock Island, Mo. and East Moline, Ill.) area, one in Richmond, Ind., one in Rock Falls, Ill., and one in Auburn, N. Y.

Gerald Fielde, director of the union's National Harvester Workers Council (CIO) said the company was "engaging in stalling and dilatory practices" in new contract negotiations, but said the union has made no specific wage increase demands.

The charge was denied by the company, which said it would not negotiate while a "wildcat strike," involving 50 union members, was going on in Chicago.

U. S. Korean Zone is Better Than Red Part

Seoul, April 3—(AP)—The general secretary of the World Federation of Trade Unions asserted today there was "far more freedom of organization" in the Russian zone of north Korea than in the U. S. southern zone.

An American member of the WFTU delegation—now touring

the Orient—said in an interview, however, that living conditions in the north were very good, and a British member described "the American zone as 'a paradise'" compared with the Russian zone.
Willard Thompson, Chicago
member of the CIO executive board, said in an interview that the delegation was under Russian military escort in its hotel at Hei-jo, Russian headquarters, and during a visit to two factories. He described living conditions in the north as "very poor."

AGAINST INDEPENDENCE
Approximately one-third of the inhabitants of the original 13 colonies in 1776 were loyalists and favored a continuance of British rule.

British to Turn Over Von Rundstedt to U. S.

Nuernberg, April 3 — (AP) — usually well-informed source said today the British soon would hand over German Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt to American war crimes trial authorities in Nuernberg.

American officials declined either to confirm or deny this report.

Von Rundstedt, commander of German forces during the "Battle of the Bulge," was brought from England recently to testify at a war crimes trial in the British occupation zone in Germany.

Fellowship of Prayer --

SURRENDER

O My Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done. Matt. 26: 42. Read Matt. 26:36-46.

The awful night of final decision has come. The agony of the cross was difficult to contemplate as a distant possibility. But now another day cannot pass without those hours of physical and mental agony. Is this really God's will? Is there no way of escape? He must know quickly for Judas has gone, and Roman torches are appearing on the streets of Jerusalem. In the agony of his prayer, God comes in loving form. "Yes, my son, it is a cross but this is not the end. I wish there were another way but there is none." He surrenders to a Father whose will is that he shall know the greatest joy of history in the realization that his faithfulness unto death has blessed men for all time to come. When we have accepted God's will by making a decision for the right, the ultimate fruits of that surrender have made clear that God is a Father seeking only the best for his children. To know this is to know why Jesus put his fate into the hands of God.

Let Us Pray: Ruler of men and worlds, we pray thee for that singleness of purpose which can come only as our wills are obedient unto thine. Teach us to make this surrender as the only way to our highest self-realization. Amen.

REQUIRED LONG TIME
So elaborate were some of the designs and decorations on the covers of early European Bibles that it required more than five years to paint a single cover.

Except that gold is yellow and copper red, all metals are "white" of various shades.

April Fool? Pearl in Oyster Really a Pearl

Collingswood, N. J., April 3—(AP)—Here's a bit of April fool addenda:

Lewis M. Westcott, sea food house proprietor, opened an oyster and found an object which looked like a pearl.

"It's just a rusty old April fool gag," his brother-in-law told him. Westcott took the object to a jeweler who told him the rusty joke was worth $200 to $300.

Any man's Darling—every man's Pride

Who says you're only young once?

Take a look at this trim, new Buick — or better, take its wheel — and see just how wrong that old saw is!

One look at these sleek lines, the long, taste-of-tomorrow fenders — and just watch yourself start getting young ideas.

Find an open road, gun this beauty just a bit — and see how the spirit of springtime wells up in your soul and sets the red blood coursing.

Good road or bad, on these soft all-coil springs you take everything with youthful zip and zest, quite freed from jar or jolt.

City street or country road, with all this poised and husky roadweight beneath you, you travel your level course, steady and non-swinging even on curves.

Pull up somewhere — and see how people turn to note the Very Important Person who's arriving.

Take it through the tangle of traffic and see how nimbly it maneuvers — check it at a boulevard stop and see how sure and positive its controls are.

In all truth, here's a car that's any man's darling, every man's pride. A car that not only meets your needs for transportation, but satisfies your every hankering for size and power, style and room, solid worth and top-dollar value.

Naturally, it's a much wanted car. America's most wanted automobile, in fact. Definitely not the number to be picked up off the counter any time, anywhere.

That's why forethought pays and prompt decision gets results. You are simply playing safe when you get your order in now!
